Narrator

A Hispanic woman speaks in Spanish while subtitles show the translation in English at the bottom of the screen.

Mother

Language is one of the most important things for Hispanics because one needs to know what problems my children are having. If one does not have a therapist that speaks Spanish, one is left with doubts. Sometimes, someone who speaks English asks you a question and you ask yourself, "What are they trying to say to me? I don't understand. Could it be something important for Jenni?"
